

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy.

Sinclair should be prevented from this highly partisan act, and the FCC should be far more aggressive in protecting the public interest by strengthening, not weakening, media ownership rules. Thank you.
